As climate risk assessment becomes increasingly critical for investment decision-making, the number of data and analytical tools that provide climate-related analytics is growing rapidly. CFA tracks data and analytics tools useful for investment decision making (for both public and private investors) on an ongoing basis. Several data points include a breakdown by the type of climate risk covered. Below is a snapshot of characteristics and functions that climate risk data and analytics tools can provide as of March 31, 2023.

What Climate Risks Do They Cover?

- 45% cover only physical risk
- 31% cover both
- 24% cover only transition risk

Physical Risk: Range of Physical Hazards Covered by Tools

- Flood
- Extreme Weather
- Extreme Heat
- Extreme Precipitation
- Landslide
- Drought
- Water Scarcity
- Wildfire

Transition Risk: Tools That Calculate Policy Risk, Changes in Technology Cost, or Both

- 94% 51 Policy
- 78% 42 Technology Cost
- 78% 42 Both

Climate Finance Advisors does not endorse any specific climate risk tool or data provider, and recognizes that the use-case for applying climate risk analytics may vary by company, institution, and organization. Tools are tracked and included if they explicitly provide an analytical tool and/or a data or software service that analyzes climate risk (physical, transition, or both). Information included in this snapshot based only on publicly available information as of March 31, 2023.
